The Benefits of SEMI Membership

SEMI membership provides brand exposure, business networking opportunities, access to information, and discounts on products such as exhibition booths. Additionally, SEMI advocates on behalf of the industry on topics such as public policy, EHS, intellectual property, and workforce development.

Member Benefits:

Influence through Participation: Access industry thought leaders and influence matters critical to the industry

Visibility: Member company profile included in the searchable SEMI online directory

Access to SEMI Staff: From Environment, Health and Safety regulatory issues to intellectual property and regional public policy advocacy to market statistics—SEMI staff is available to assist members around the world

Access to Information: Complimentary access to industry-focused webinars and members-only library of content on SEMI website

Discounts: Take advantage of exhibition, sponsorship, online advertising (newsletters and websites), market information, and industry standards discounts

Extended Benefits: Includes discounts for all employees

Exhibition Priority Points: Earn valuable priority points for better booth space selection

Support SEMI: As a not-for-profit trade association, SEMI membership dues sustain programs and services critical to the advancement of our industry such as standards development, strategic industry and global initiatives, government relations, and new market development

Join SEMI today—gain access to programs, technology, communities, and other opportunities that will expand your business network..
