

SEMIViews®—Easy Web Access to SEMI® International Standards

Standards support innovation, competition, and industry expansion, while helping reduce costs and speeding products to the marketplace. From the dimensions and properties of wafers to the automation and safety of processing equipment and facilities, SEMI International Standards influence every step of the process in manufacturing today's microelectronics devices.

SEMIViews is an annual subscription-based product with online access to SEMI Standards. The online subscription allows password-protected access to over 870 Standards at your convenience.

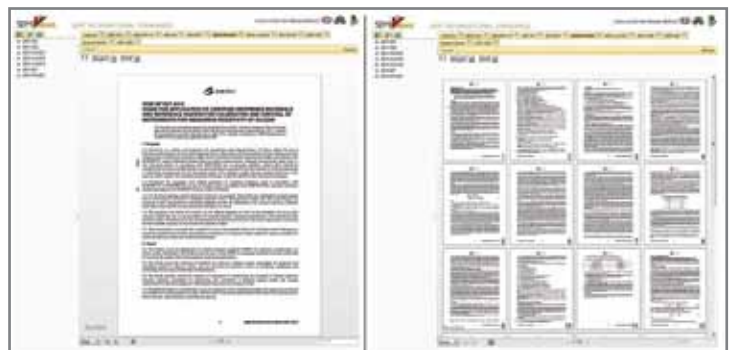

The portal allows users to organize their most frequently used documents by selecting pre-arranged tabs, allowing for effortless navigation between Standards documents. The search feature will save you time—whether you're searching for a specific keyword within a single or multiple documents.

New and revised Standards are automatically made available through the system ensuring you access to the latest documents. SEMIViews includes Standards in English (the official language) as well as selected Standards in Japanese, Traditional Chinese, and Korean.
